WESTERN STATES AIR RESOURCES COUNCIL

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS FOR INSTRUCTIONAL SERVICES FOR THE PRESENTATION OF: EFFECTIVE PERMIT WRITING (APTI 454), OR SUBSTANTIALLY EQUIVALENT COURSE

I. ORGANIZATION DESCRIPTION

The Western States Air Resources Council (WESTAR) was founded in 1988 by eight western state air agencies. Since hiring staff and opening its office in early 1992, the Council has grown to fifteen states including Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming. WESTAR Council is a nonprofit organization that was formed: to promote the exchange of information between the States; to serve as a forum to discuss western regional air quality issues of common concern; to share resources for the common benefit of the member states; and to provide training services to air pollution control agencies in the western United States. WESTAR Council is located in Santa Fe, New Mexico, Portland, Oregon, and Fort Collins, Colorado, has a staff of five, and is funded primarily by EPA grants. For further information on WESTAR Council, potential bidders may refer to: www.westar.org.

II. SOURCE OF FUNDING

WESTAR receives most of its training funding from federal Clean Air Act (CAA) Section (§) 103 funds. The funding that will support this project is from CAA § 103 grants awarded to WESTAR. These funds were initially state and tribal assistance grant funds which were reserved at the national level with approval of the National Association of Clean Air Agencies (NACAA) to support air program training needs.

III. TRAINING PROGRAM SUMMARY

WESTAR's training program serves the training needs of state and local air pollution control agencies in fifteen western states. The diversity among these western air agencies is vast. While some agency staff numbers are in the 10s, others reach well into the 100s, and while some agencies are adequately funded, others do not have sufficient funds to participate in training nor the capability to achieve the minimum number of attendees to offer a training course. Staff turnover is another major issue of these agencies which means that many of these agencies are in large part staffed by relatively inexperienced individuals. However, regardless of the tremendous diversity of these state and local agencies, these air pollution control agencies need and desire highly qualified, competent staff to operate critical programs and make crucial decisions, and all share the need for staff with expert skills, knowledge and abilities to effectively and efficiently serve the needs of their constituencies.

WESTAR meets these training needs by identifying, designing, developing and delivering needed, cost-effective, responsive, and western-states-focused educational opportunities for state and local air agency staff. For Federal Fiscal Year 2018 WESTAR will offer 20-25 training courses in the western United States. Agenda and course materials are obtained from a variety of sources including EPA, colleges and universities, regional training consortia, and individual instructors.

IV. PURPOSE OF RFP

The purpose of this Request for Proposal (RFP) is to solicit instructional services and costs bid to present Effective Permit Writing (APTI 454), or a substantially equivalent course.

The products of this project shall include but not limited to instructional services. Prospective bidder may determine the need to update the course agenda to better reflect the needs of the target audience (see below), and/or to reflect changes in environmental regulations, the implementation of new policies, and the advancement of technologies. Changes such as these can cause the agenda and course materials to be out-of-date and/or not up-to-date.

Attendees attending the proposed training course will generally be state and local air pollution control agency staff from the western United States.
